

Allowing cell phone during flight will create many problems on board, especially for flight attendants.

As a frequent public transportation passenger I cannot tell you the days I want to physically throttle an inconsiderate cell phone yakker on a Metro car. Many nights I actually move to another car at as top to get away from the " then last night he told me....".

I and many others would lose it -forced to sit to & next listen to one sided chatter, whether business or personal. Business travelers are used to not being able to use their cell phones and find the time on the plane to do quiet business related work without being inconsiderate to their fellow passengers.

I worry that physical fights and verbal fights will erupt in close quarters and flight attendants will be forced to broker disagreements. Please do not allow this to go forward.
